Aimco is selling itself piece by piece

Apartment Investment and Management Company went into voluntary liquidation because the board decided that selling the leftover assets one portfolio at a time would return more cash than staying public or selling the whole company. Stockholders approved that plan on February 6, 2026. The company is still listed and still selling.

> The wind-down is not finished. Aimco aims to sell what is left within 24 months of the February 6, 2026 vote, so by early February 2028. Anything still unsold can move into a liquidating trust. Through June 3, 2026 it had paid $1.45 (March 13) and $1.30 (June 3). Those payments sit on top of $2.83 per share of special dividends already paid in 2025. The board's all-in figure, special dividends plus the liquidation range, was $8.58 to $9.93.

Why the board chose liquidation

After the December 15, 2020 spin-off of AIR Communities, Aimco kept the small remainder: development, lease-up properties, land, and opportunistic investments, about 12% of the old market cap. AIR took the stabilized apartments. That leftover never looked like a normal apartment REIT.

A strategic review opened in fall 2022. In September 2023 a buyer ("Party A") floated an oral bid of $9.00 a share and never delivered a written offer with financing. On January 9, 2025 the board widened the process to asset sales, sales of major pieces, or a sale or merger of the whole company. Morgan Stanley and Wachtell Lipton ran it. Aimco contacted 110 parties and signed confidentiality agreements with 59. No whole-company bid came in at a price the board thought beat selling the pieces.

On November 10, 2025 the board unanimously approved a Plan of Sale and Liquidation. The January 2, 2026 proxy states these reasons.

WHAT THE BOARD WEIGHED	CONCLUSION
Scale	Too small versus other public multifamily REITs.
Asset mix	The remaining holdings did not fit together.
Overhead	General and administrative costs with no economies of scale.
Cost of capital	Too weak to fund growth as a standalone REIT.
Whole-company sale	110 parties contacted, 59 under NDA. No bid the board preferred to selling assets separately.
Shareholders	Conversations supported selling everything and dissolving.

WHAT THE BOARD WEIGHED	CONCLUSION
REIT tax	A formal plan lets sales qualify for the dividends-paid deduction within 24 months. Payments are meant to be a return of basis, then capital gain, rather than ordinary dividends.
Price versus the market	$5.75–$7.10 per share was a 7% to 32% premium to the $5.38 close on November 7, 2025.

The vote

Record date December 31, 2025: 144,075,540 common shares. The special meeting was at Aimco’s Denver headquarters.

PROPOSAL	FOR	AGAINST	ABSTAIN	RESULT
Plan of sale and liquidation	119,217,338	108,600	5,955	Approved, about 83% of shares outstanding
Advisory vote on executive pay tied to the plan	68,067,141	51,026,880	237,872	Advisory approval; much closer
Adjournment if more proxies were needed	97,045,288	22,260,459	26,146	Not used; the liquidation vote already had enough support

Source: Form 8-K, February 6, 2026. The pay vote is advisory. The proxy estimated up to about $14.6 million for Wes Powell and about $5.5 million for Lynn Stanfield in cash, equity, and benefits if employment ends in connection with the plan, assuming a $6.43 share price and target performance.

What is left to sell, June 30, 2026

The June 30, 2026 statement of net assets books real estate at the cash management expects from selling it: $1,055.5 million. Loans and partner capital against those buildings are $485.4 million, leaving $570.1 million of real-estate equity. Notes and passive stakes add $91.4 million. After every liability, net assets in liquidation are $514.6 million, about $3.47 per operating-partnership unit.

> Per-property gross values are an allocation, not a disclosure. The 10-Q states the $1,055.5 million total and does not state a price for each property. The split below adds up to that total. Management used contracts, offers, or broker opinions, and raised the real-estate total by $72.9 million after February 1, almost all of it 34th Street in Miami, with a matching cost-to-finish. Land is one pool inside the $1,055 million. The split across the five parcels is the least supported column.

Ordered by net equity. Flying Horse is $10.0 million of net equity and has no photo in this set. Fitzsimons 4 and the CU Anschutz options are below that threshold and also have no photo.

As of June 30, 2026, 578 of 689 homes (84%) and 97% of the retail were leased, so the building is collecting apartment and retail rent. Aimco does not disclose this property's rental income. The Q4 2025 liquidation schedule projects $33.9–$36.8 million of 2027 property NOI for Upton Place, Strathmore Square Phase 1, and Oak Shore together, before $5.1 million of 2027 ground rent on the two Washington-area leases. Claim is the $215m bridge loan plus the $20m partner interest.

The 9,000 square feet of retail was 64% pre-leased in the Q4 2025 supplement. Aimco does not disclose this property's rental income. It is in the same $33.9–$36.8 million 2027 property NOI projection as Upton Place and Oak Shore. Claim is the construction loan.

Rental revenue for Bank Lofts and The Bluffs is 4Q 2025 average monthly rental and other property revenue per occupied home, from Aimco's February 2026 supplemental. The annual figures assume every home is occupied at that rate. The $33.9–$36.8 million and $18.0 million figures are Aimco's 2027 and stabilized NOI projections from the same supplement, not current rental income.

Sensitivity: lower value on the three largest holdings

Upton Place, 34th Street, and Strathmore Square Phase 1 are the three largest holdings, $818.5 million of gross value together. Each row cuts that gross value by the stated percent and leaves every loan, partner claim, and other asset and liability at the June 30 balance. Real-estate net equity is the chart total. Net assets in liquidation is the equity that can be distributed. Per share uses 148.2 million OP Units outstanding at June 30, 2026. Each common share has been paid the same liquidating distribution as one OP Unit.

HAIRCUT ON THE TOP 3	TOP 3 GROSS VALUE	REAL-ESTATE NET EQUITY	NET ASSETS IN LIQUIDATION	NET EQUITY PER SHARE
None, June 30 values	$818.5m	$570.1m	$514.6m	$3.47
10% lower	$736.7m	$488.3m	$432.8m	$2.92
20% lower	$654.8m	$406.4m	$350.9m	$2.37
30% lower	$573.0m	$324.6m	$269.1m	$1.82

A 10% cut is $81.9 million, a 20% cut is $163.7 million, and a 30% cut is $245.6 million. Debt does not fall with the value, so equity falls by the full cut. At a 30% cut all three buildings still cover their loans. Source: allocated June 30, 2026 gross values and the $514.618 million of net assets in the 10-Q.

Other investments on the same asset list

These are not inside the $1,055 million. The 10-Q states the amounts, except Parkmerced, which is omitted from the asset total.

INVESTMENT	TYPE	LIQUIDATION VALUE	SOURCE
Brickell Assemblage notes	Seller financing	$85.0m	Face value, which management used as the liquidation value. Two-year notes from the December 2025 Miami sale.

Strathmore Square Phase 2	Land joint venture	$1.9m	Unconsolidated Bethesda land partnership. Carrying value, and management's cap on the loss.
Parkmerced mezzanine loan	Mezzanine loan	$0	Not in the $91.4m. The loan is in maturity default. A $33.5m participation liability stays on the books and is not payable unless Aimco first collects $134m.
Notes and other investments		$91.4m	Equals the $91.4 million line. Parkmerced adds nothing.

Founder, no longer running it

Terry Considine formed The Considine Company in 1975, led the 1994 IPO, and was chairman and CEO while Aimco became the country's largest apartment owner. In December 2020 he and the board split off AIR Communities. He became AIR's CEO and left the Aimco board on February 13, 2023, writing that "New Aimco" no longer needed him. Blackstone affiliates bought AIR; that merger closed June 28, 2024.

Change is June 30 shares minus March 31 shares, matched by filer CIK. For a manager who held nothing on June 30, Filed is the date of the last Form 13F that reported the shares. Percent uses 145,236,898 common shares outstanding on August 5, 2026. Value is the Form 13F market value; ten filers still reported value in thousands, and those amounts are multiplied by 1,000. A parent and a sub-adviser can both report the same shares. Source: SEC Form 13F data sets for filings made March 1–May 31, 2026 and June 1–August 31, 2026.

Directors and officers. The share count starts from beneficial ownership in the January 2, 2026 proxy, as of December 12, 2025, and adds later Form 4 changes in Class A common stock. Change is since March 31, 2026, the same quarter used for the institutions.

Kellie Dreyer is not in that proxy table; her shares are Class A common stock reported on Form 4. Filed is the last Form 4, or January 2, 2026 when the proxy is still the latest report. Percent uses the same 145,236,898 shares.
